Team Systems Coaching

Sometimes our teams are operating sub-optimally, whether it's personality clashes, poor communication or a lack of alignment in vision and values. In other cases, teams are simply in a rut, where old unproductive habits die hard. Our team systems coaching provides a unique approach to creating high performing, cohesive teams. Two systems coaches will work with your team to have them define a new way of operating together that ensures effective communication, enhanced commitment and productive collaboration.

Participants will leave with:

- A greater sense of belonging and purpose within their team
- Clarity on their team's shared vision, values and goals
- A greater understanding of each of their team members and how to best work with them
- More effective and efficient team operations

This course is designed for:

- Intact teams that want to address poor productivity, silo mentality, unresolved conflict and/or poor communication
- New teams that want to hit the ground running
- Merger or joint venture initiatives where two distinct teams are coming together and want to create a stronger, cohesive culture
- Intact teams that want to develop high functioning teaming skills and greater results

Format:

Team systems coaching is typically conducted in monthly coaching sessions, for at least 6 months. The program may kick-off with a longer half-day session with the team.
